Mediation Fellowship Programme 2019

Why undertake the Fellowship Programme?

- Recognition of your skill and knowledge.
- Fellowship is the Institute's highest qualification and is recognised in New Zealand and internationally. AMINZ Fellows have a reciprocal right of Fellowship with the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators (UK), opening the opportunity of international credentialing.
- To gain the use of the post-nominal, "FAMINZ (Arb)".

Who should undertake the Fellowship Programme?

- Associates of the Institute.
- Those who have sufficient training and / or experience to satisfy AMINZ Associate status and who want to progress to the highest level of membership.
- Those who have completed and excelled in a University dispute resolution programme.

The Programme

The Fellowship Programme is at an advanced level and assesses your ability to act as a mediator. The Institute tests candidates with the expectation that they already have a robust understanding of mediation.

Candidates are required to successfully complete:

- An interview
- A one-day Advanced Mediation Seminar
- A two-hour Fellowship Preparation Seminar
- Two, two-hour written examinations
- A practical examination
- Council approval

1. Interview

The interview by two Fellowship admission assessors assesses your readiness for the programme.

2. Advanced Mediation Seminar

The Advanced Mediation Seminar refreshes and updates you and your mediation knowledge. The seminar is led by a senior member of the Institute.

The Advanced Mediation Seminar is also a great opportunity for those practitioners wanting to build their knowledge of mediation. You do not have to be sitting Fellowship to undertake the seminar, but you can decide to progress to the Fellowship programme after having participated in the seminar.

Attendance at the Advanced mediation Seminar qualifies you for 4 points towards AMINZ CPD compliance and provides CPD towards other programmes. CPD certificates will be issued.

3. Fellowship Preparation Seminar

The Mediation Fellowship Preparation Seminar is compulsory for candidates sitting the Fellowship Programme. The two-hour session guides you through the preparation for examinations, the scoring criteria, and is an opportunity to establish study groups and obtain mentors. The seminar is led by a senior member of the Institute and takes place in the evening following the Advanced Mediation Seminar.

4. Written examinations

Two 2-hour examinations assessing your academic knowledge of mediation and practice. These examinations are both written on the same day.

Successful completion of the examinations is a pre-requisite for the practical assessment, which takes place a few months after the examinations.

5. Practical Assessment

This is a practical assessment of your competence and professionalism as a mediator. It includes role plays and self-reflections.

6. Council approval

The names of all candidates who have achieved success in the written examinations and the practical assessment are submitted to Council for approval as new Fellows of the Institute

7. Re-sits

If you have attempted Fellowship previously and failed a component of the examination regime, you need to re-sit the failed component only within three years. Once you pass that component, you can then apply to be accepted by Council as a Fellow of the Institute.
